Zalewski appointed chair of House Revenue Committee
Riverside Democrat will play a critical role in budget negotiations
By BOB GARDNER

Illinois' impending budget crisis is expected to have a significant role in drafting a solution and that role is expected to be played by a new member of the House Revenue Committee.

Zalewski assumes the chairmanship of the Revenue Committee at a time when the state has been without a budget for nearly two years and faces a nearly $10 billion backlog of unpaid bills.

"I came to Springfield more than eight years ago to help responsible take on Illinois' toughest challenges, and this chairmanship will put me in a prime position to do so," Zalewski said in a press release announcing his appointment. "I appreciate Speaker Madigan's faith in appointing me to this critical role. I will work hard to preserve the committee's tradition of carefully reviewing all proposals to change our tax and fee structure and put taxpayers first in our decisions."

Zalewski has served on the Revenue Committee since he came to the House in 2009 and previously was the vice chairman. The past chairman of the committee, John Bradley, a Democrat from southern Illinois, was resigned of office in November in a badly contested race. Bradley

With many school districts having placed greater emphasis on STEM careers, technology, engineering and mathematics in classrooms in recent years, it's not every day that students get to meet local technology and engineering professionals to discover how a STEM education can lead to real world careers.

Providing students the chance to meet STEM professionals and explore career possibilities through participation was the goal of last night's STEM Night at Congress Park School in Brookfield. The event was held at the school's gymnasium and featured a variety of activities for students and their families.
